THE GREAT ANACONDA.

OR TERRIBLE OF CRYSTAL.

THE most destructive of all serpents now exhibiting at the City Commissioners' Office, is the GREAT ANACONDA, or TERRIBLE OF CRYSTAL.

No 10 CHESNUT STREET, between Front and Second streets, for a few days only. It is astonishingly the largest ever exhibited. The colour of this stupendous specimen of Nature's works, are vivid and brilliant. When full grown it will measure upwards of SIXTY FEET in length, and its head will be as large as that of a man. It is a creature which kills by the pressure of its body. It is a creature which is not only a pest to the farmer, but also a pest to the city.

This image shows a dark, vertical, textured surface, likely the cover or endpaper of an old book. The material appears worn, with visible creases, scratches, and areas of discoloration. A prominent vertical crease runs down the center, and there are lighter, irregular patches near the top and bottom edges, suggesting age and handling. The overall appearance is that of a well-used, antique object.

staying from five to fifteen years. One Roussain, sentenced to the latter term, on hearing down, and immediately to the president.
"While you are about it you may as well make it up treaty."

We mentioned a few days ago that there was some prospect of the long-talked-of monument to the memory of the late President Grant being likely to be taken in hand. There is another monument, the idea of which is even of longer standing than the Royal Highness, and for which the means have long ago been accumulated—we mean that voted by the Members of the Pitt Club in the memory of that great Statesman. We mention it, not only because ago, Mr. G. B. of Aberdeen, offered to excavate a column of Aberdeen granite, in one solid stone of 110 feet in height, for the sum of £2,000.
If this be the case, we cannot conceive why there was any hesitation in accepting the offer—Cal.

MILAN, SEPT. 21.—You will now expect that I should speak of Milan, with which I am free to show my disappointment. It is, indeed, a particularly dull place, and, were it not for the Opera, would be altogether insupportable.
The Opera, however, is open but three nights in the week, and for several weeks back they have alternately played two Operas, neither of which have any merit whatever. The one is Basil—as its name imports, Scriptural; the other is a serious melodrama, called Bianca e Fernando, the music by Bellini. Bianca, the heroine of this Opera, is personated by the Signora Marie Lalande, of whom the English public have heard so much. Lalande is about 35 years of age, and a blonde. She is above the middle size, and her features are rather pleasing than expressive. Her voice is more remarkable for softness than power, and it is more common than she manages to give to her singing, and address. A more powerful, a deeper, or a higher voice, might not be heard in the immense area of the Scala; yet Lalande, though her voice has by no means an extensive compass, is perfectly heard in every part of the immense theatre. She, however, waits (or appears to wait) feeling, and without this, her success anywhere out of her own country would be more than problematical. The hero of the Opera, at this moment in Milan, is Signor Giovanni Bat-tista Rubini, unquestionably a tenor of great volume, indelible, and sweetness. The falsetto of Rubini is perfect. Naturally he is as highly admired as Donelli, while he possesses infinitely more science and cultivation. Rubini would be a great acquisition in England, and, as Galli is here now (it is said, catering for La-pierre), it is to be hoped he will be engaged.
Tamburini is next to Rubini in merit. His voice is a baritone, and he possesses all the cultivation of Rubini, with a more pleasing exterior.

In M. Pariet's last letter from Egypt to M.
Portal the following method of preserving leeches for repeated use is communicated, as being in general use among the Egyptians.
After having come off the leeches are sewed by the head, and, by gently squeezing them towards the tail, are made to discharge the greater part of the blood. After the operation they are put into sugar-water, by which the remains of the blood is evacuated. This is several times repeated, until the water remains clear, when they can be used as before, with the advantage that they bite with much greater avidity. Thus the same leech can be applied every third day, and often serves for three years.

NOVEL EXECUTION.—The following story, says the Elgin Courier, pertains so much of the marvellous, that, unless we could place the utmost reliance on the quarter from which we obtained it, we should certainly scruple about giving it publicity.—One of the coaches which were used between the station and the road, and from the former place one morning a few weeks ago, with a good cargo of passengers. They had not proceeded many miles when one of them perceived a dog following the coach, which he naturally concluded belonged to one of his fellow-travellers. There was nothing particular about the dog, except its attention, and probably the owner might have yet enjoyed his society, had not his crimes met with the summary punishment of the law. The gentleman who first perceived him following the vehicle continued, from accident than design, to keep his eye upon him. In about half an hour he perceived the dog enter a field where several sheep were grazing.
Fourthly he attacked and killed one of the flock, and, after sipping a little of its blood, he left the carcass and soon overtook the coach.
All this passed in a few minutes, and had been observed by most of the passengers, and, though several gentlemen remarked upon the daring recklessness of the animal's attack, and probably in open day, no one seemed to own any particular interest in the sheep-killing. The coach had not gone above another stage or two when a second flock of sheep were observed grazing in a field at a considerable distance from, but within sight of the road, and every eye was fixed upon the dog to see how he would act.
Judge of the surprise of the passengers when they saw him leap the fence and make straight for the field, where he worried one of the sheep before their eyes, and in the course of a quarter of an hour again overtook them, with his white teeth crimsoned with blood. This was too much for the patience of a great number of the travellers, and several of them, taking their staves, and novel execution has not occurred for many a day, and, though several of the passengers would have rather spared the agonies of the dog's exit, yet his offences had been so recent and palpable, that no one, not even his master, if he had one on the coach, attempted to say a word in his behalf.

SINGULAR SUICIDE.—The melancholy instances of self-destruction at Boston have rapidly multiplied of late; but although the painful duty of announcing them has been much more frequent than formerly, yet we do not remember a solitary case, which affords so much ground for conjecture as the one we are about to relate, for several reasons.
—Chiefly considering the advanced age of the party, thus snatching off the last remnant of a protracted existence, and the apparent absence of any reasonable cause. Mrs. Mary George, widow, formerly landlady of the Indian Queen public-house, in Dorchester, retired from business some years ago, for nearly twenty years she had been afflicted with illness, and her sufferings were great; at the period of her death she had entered her eighty-first year, and she has spent about sixteen years in easy pecuniary circumstances, being attended by an effectively trained nurse, and Mary Ann Danderson, when the old lady had brought up from infancy.
Within the last few weeks Mrs. George manifested, by unequivocal symptoms, that her mental faculties were rapidly decaying; her memory forsook her, and she appears to have become childish and superstitious. She had been unable to dress herself, or even to get out of bed, without assistance for a long time.
About one o'clock on Friday afternoon she was as well as usual, and in bed. Mary Ann Danderson did not disturb her aged benefactor, but about an hour afterwards she again went up stairs, and there she saw the poor old woman on her knees, with a bloody knife in her hand, and the vital fluid trickling from a wound in the neck, which had been caused by the deceased stabbing herself with the knife she retained in her grasp. She was alive then, and said to the woman that found her—"Oh! my dear, my heart has been broken all summer." And this was the only explanation she gave either of the wound, or of the reason which induced her to thus to cut off the short time she had to live—She sent for her relatives, and told them to pray for her, and she also prayed fervently and distinctly for some time. About a quarter past four o'clock the same afternoon she expired, being perfectly sensible after she had wounded herself up to the moment of her death. Mr. J.

R. Rogers, surgeon, was called in, and sewed up the laceration. Mrs. Wingate, a niece of the deceased, asked why she had laid violent hands upon herself, and she replied that she had been broken-hearted all summer. An inquest was held upon the body on Saturday morning, at the Ship Tavern, before J. H. Holloway, Gent., Coroner for this borough, and a very respectable Jury, when a verdict was returned to the effect—"That the deceased destroyed herself in a fit of temporary derangement."—Boston (Eng.)

PHILADELPHIA!
FRIDAY EVENING, NOV. 27, 1829.

It may be safely said that, for a great number of years, no event has been more general and sincere feeling of regret, in this community, than the death of Judge WASH-INGTON, which took place yesterday afternoon. His personal character secured him the affection and respect of all who knew him. As a Judge, his vigorous and searching intellect, his thorough knowledge in every branch of the law, his independence, which never yielded, though sometimes tried in circumstances which would have distressed, if not overpowered, a man of less resolute integrity, entitle his name to a place among those of the men to whom our country is most deeply indebted. Even should the place which he has left vacant be filled, as we trust it will be, by one of those most worthy to take it, his successor will be subject to the most severe tests, in a comparison with the man whose name we now lament. A man, raised to this station by other claims than those of real merit, would be sure to sink, immediately, into irredeemable contempt.

Full justice, we trust, will be done to the character and history of BUSHROD WASH-INGTON, by some one competent to the task.
The subject is well worthy of the pen that perpetuated the virtues of a Tighman. We must content ourselves with giving the tribute paid to his memory by those who knew him best.

At a meeting of the BAR OF PHILADELPHIA, in the Court Room of the CIRCUIT COURT OF the UNITED STATES, on Friday, the 27th Nov.
1829, W. RAWLE, Esquire, was called to the Chair.

The object of the meeting being stated by the Chair, to render due honor to the memory of the excellent and venerated presiding magistrate of the Circuit Court, the Honorable BUSHROD WASHINGTON, who died at the Mansion House Hotel, in this city, on the 26th inst.

Mr. DALLAS, the District Attorney, after offering a just tribute to the learning, virtues, and services, of this distinguished and lamented individual, by a notice of his professional and judicial life, offered the following resolutions, which were seconded and sustained in some impressive remarks, by Mr. SERGEANT, and were unanimously adopted by the Bar, and ordered to be published in the newspapers of the City.

The Members of the Bar of Philadelphia, having heard that the Hon. BUSHROD WASH-INGTON, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the UNITED STATES, and the Judge of the Circuit Court of the UNITED STATES for this District, died in this city yesterday afternoon:

Resolved, That this lamented occurrence leaves our country to deplore the loss of an able, experienced, and faithful functionary, and ourselves deeply to regret a wise and instructive guide, a brilliant ornament to our professional ranks, and a beloved companion in social intercourse.

Resolved, That in order to evince our sense of this public and private calamity, and as a tribute of respect to the memory of a man long and universally cherished and admired, the members of the Bar of Philadelphia will wear mourning, on the left arm, for thirty days.

On motion of Mr. J. R. INGERSOLL, it was ordered, That a Committee be appointed to express, to the family of Judge WASHINGTON, the affection of this Bar for his memory, and their deep regret for his loss; and that the same Committee be authorized to take order, in regard to such other measures as they may deem expedient, to convey these sentiments to the public.

W. RAWLE, Chairman.
HOR. BINNEY, Sec'y.

We have great satisfaction in being enabled to remove the apprehensions entertained respecting the HONORABLE Sloop of war, excited, not without reason, by the absence of intelligence, from that ship, for an unusual length of time.
A friend has this morning shown us a letter from New York, dated Nov. 26, to a near relation of a young officer on board the HONORABLE, of which the following is an extract:—"Private letters have been received at this yard, to-day, from PENNSYLVANIA, stating that a sloop of war has been sent from PENNSYLVANIA, to bring the HONORABLE to that place (Pennsylvania) she having been damaged, and having made her way into TAMPAIC. Officers and crew all well. I am very happy in being able to give you this information. It will certainly remove a load of anxiety from your mind; and you may depend upon its being correct, as one of the letters is direct from an acquaintance of mine who left her in the PENNSYLVANIA." act. 27-28

We are informed, on the authority of a passenger who was in the KIMBERLY stage yesterday morning, that the stage was stopped near the first mile-stone from the bridge, by three men, one of whom was above six feet in height. One of the passengers saved his money by securing it in the stage, and another preserved a gold watch in the same manner. The thieves took what they could lay their hands on, bound the driver and passengers with their hands behind them, ordering them not to stir, on pain of death, for a quarter of an hour, tied the horses to a fence, and went off. The parties robbed were afterwards released by a market-man, as stated yesterday. Our account mentions three passengers; another only two. The mail was plundered, and the bag lying in the road. The Post-master offers a reward of one hundred dollars for the apprehension and conviction of the rogues.

SEFTON, who takes a benefit this evening at the WALNUT STREET THEATRE, we have frequently heard mentioned by those on whom reliance may be placed, as a deserving young man and a valuable player. His deserts, we hope, will not go unrewarded. His card is placed among our dramatic advertisements.

It has been intimated, in one of the country newspapers, that Mr. RAWLE has discontinued, or intends to discontinue his valuable labours, as reporter of the Decisions of the SUPREME COURT. We are happy to learn that this is not the case; and that Mr. RAWLE will continue to report, with the same care which he has heretofore bestowed on the work.

FROM PORTO-RICO.—Mr. Stone, supercargo of brig Orion, 16 days from Mayaguez, arrived at Newburyport, Mass. informs that a squadron arrived at St. Juan's 24th Oct. from Spain, consisting of 1 (Russian) transport, with 700 Spanish sailors, 1 Spanish corvette, and a brig, designed for Havana to join Laborde's squadron.— They had on board a Spanish General and his family, who had despatches for the Gov. of Havana, the purpose of which had not transpired, but reported to be an inquiry into the reasons why Gov. Vives and Gen. Baradas sent the expedition to Mexico with so few men on board.
Another expedition was to sail from Ferrol to join the above at Havana.

By the packet St. George, arrived at New York from Liverpool, we have the LONDON MORNING CHRONICLE of October 24, one day later than the papers previously received. From this, and from the NEW YORK papers of yesterday, we take the annexed extracts:—

LONDON, Oct. 24.
The American Minister, and the Right Hon.
Stratford Canning, transacted business on the 23rd at the office of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

AMNESTY IN SPAIN.—The King of Spain has been granting favours and honours in his rejoicing for the landing of his expedition on the coast of Mexico. The following are stated to be certainly known: a general amnesty for all political offences and opinions; it will, however, be still forbidden to certain persons to approach the capital. All the Spanish Ministers receive the Grand Cordon of Charles III.; and the Neapolitan Ambassadors at Madrid, and the Neapolitan Minister of Foreign Affairs, receive the order of the Golden Fleece. The Prince D'Angona, Marquis de Mon Salad, and General Morillo, who is Count de Carthagena, are declared to be purified, and are restored to their ranks and honours. Brigadier-General Barradas and Laborde, who commanded the expedition against Mexico, are promoted a grade, and created nobles of Mexico.

We have received Petersburg papers to the 8th inst. They do not contain the Treaty of Peace between Russia and Turkey, and are destitute of news.

A letter from Eginna says that the President, Count Capo d'Istria, arrived there from Poros on the 5th of September, on board the frigate Hellas, and that he was received with the usual honours. A monk, who arrived on the 6th of September at Eginna, from the convent Jura-mal, near Daulia, at the foot of Parnassus, informs us that 4000 Albanians had penetrated as far as the plains of Turkochoi, by the defiles of Mount Oeta. They escorted 3000 beasts of burden, loaded with biscuits and other provisions.
Karataso had, a few days previous, left his position near Butunoti. The Turk halted there two days in order to convince themselves whether the enemy was behind the defiles of Fontana and Wassiko. The inhabitants of these countries had escaped to the mountains, leaving the produce of the harvest in the hands of the enemy.

Demetrius Ypantiotis occupies, with about 3000 men, the village of Stevenio, Petra, and several other positions of the Hellicon, as well as the routes which lead towards Delphi and Salona, to the south of Parnassus. It is believed that Karataso is near Amblani.

In the Revenue Accounts lately published, the annual duty paid on foreign corn imported so inequitable and odious, and we believe it did—it actually is so to a considerable extent. It appears from a Return, ordered by the House of Commons to be printed, that the amount of duty paid on foreign corn and meal, under the act of 1828, between the months of July, 1828, and February, 1829, inclusive, was £236,514, which £236,514 were paid, between October and February, and come within this year's accounts. It has been said by Mr.
Whitmore, that Great Britain annually consumes six million quarters more corn than she produces.
Of these six millions, three are furnished by Ireland, three by foreigners; so that, in spite of our prohibitory law, which existed up to 1828, we have actually become dependent on foreign countries for about a tenth part of our annual subsistence.

The London Gazette of Oct. 23, contains a Proclamation, announcing that His Majesty, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, orders that so much of the acts passed in the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth, years of his Majesty's reign, as impose prohibitions and restrictions on the importation of goods into the British possessions in America, and the Island of Mauritius, and as relates to the entry of vessels and goods, inwards and outwards, into those possessions, and the Island aforesaid, and to the prevention of smuggling, shall be extended and made applicable to the British settlements at Sierra Leone, and all other his Majesty's settlements on the western coast of Africa.

The Funds maintain their advanced prices.— Consols for the Account fluctuated with a fraction of the opening price—91 5/8-1/4; and for Money, 91 3/4-1/8—being 1/8 lower only. Exchange Bill likewise continues at a premium of from 74 to 75.

In the Foreign Market there have been some dealings in Colombian, and that too at improved prices—namely, 19 1/2-3/4-1/8; and 30; Maxicans 20-1/4; Peruvians 14 1/4-1/8; Neapolitans 20 1/2-1/8; Russians 108 1/4-1/8.

In the Share Market, Brazilian Imperial has advanced from 75 to 81.

[From the Messenger des Chambers of Oct. 21, 22 ed.] Monsieur, Oct. 18.—Among the number of foreigners at present in our city is the President Knight, Barlow.
He was at Munich in the month of May, from whence he set out in June for Rio Janeiro, with the contract of marriage. He is now on his return from that city, and the bearer of the ratification of the marriage contract. At his departure from Rio Janeiro preparations were making for the reception of the young Empress, in honour of whom all that the city and the Empire can offer of pomp and splendour will be put under contribution. The Emperor will go to the port to meet his young wife. It may be confidently expected that the ceremony will be a grand and brilliant one, and that the Emperor, and the young bride, will be met by the West. The young Empress will, therefore, be met at the place of her destination.

A letter from the Isle of Bourbon, dated July 25, says "The two corvettes, the Nièvre and La Cheroise, put into the roads of St. Denis for water, and almost immediately set sail again, to rejoin, with the troops which they had on board, the frigate Terrapine, the Indefatigable, and the corvette Le Madagascar, which had previously sailed for Madagascar. The object of this division was to drive off the Malagases, who had just taken possession of the establishments which we have on that island."

The Queen mother, who governs at Madagascar, has been sent a letter to every thing that bears the name of France, that she would no longer suffer the sight of the flag of our nation upon her territory. Though her troops, which have been disciplined in the European manner, might oppose an obstacle to the projected invasion, it appears that they have no idea that they shall be able to rid themselves of the French regiments solely by means of the previous climate. Every day our establishments in India suffer a new and more important maintenance of the character of humbled and fugitive individuals. There is but a single piece of cannon now on Chandragore."
